Civil War Sesquicentennial

Missouri History Museum

➔ In 2011, the state of Missouri will mark the 150th anniversary of the start of the Civil War with a number of exhibits, events and activities, including various reenactments of historic battles throughout the state.

In St. Louis, the Missouri History Museum (www.mohistory.org) will host The Civil War in Missouri, a comprehensive exhibit featuring interactive elements as well as compelling imagery and artifacts. The exhibition will be on display November 12, 2011–March 17, 2013, and promises to explore and address the specific Missouri issues that the state and its citizens wrestled with during the war years.

Also scheduled to open in 2011 are the Missouri Civil War Museum (www.mcwm.org) and MCWM Studies Center at Jefferson Barracks Historic Site. The two facilities will become the state's largest educational complex dedicated exclusively to the study of Missouri's role in the Civil War. The museum is slated to open in April at the historic Jefferson Barracks Post Exchange & Gymnasium Building.

Named in honor of President Thomas Jefferson, Jefferson Barracks (www.jbhf.org) is the oldest operating U.S. military installation west of the Mississippi River. The barracks played a critical role in the history of America's armed forces and its list of alumni includes more than 100 Civil War general officers. Some of the best-known men who served here include Ulysses S. Grant, Robert E. Lee, William Tecumseh Sherman, James Longstreet, Joseph Johnston and Braxton Bragg.

☛ There are 38 National Historic Landmarks located within a two-hour drive of St. Louis, and many of them represent some of the bistate region's most popular attractions.

One of the bridges connecting St. Louis with Illinois and all points east is the 6,442-foot-long Eads Bridge, designed and built by James Buchanan Eads in 1874. The innovative structure was the world's first alloy steel bridge and the first to depend entirely upon the use of the cantilever in its construction. Across the river in Collinsville, Illinois, is the Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site, which was the settlement of the Mississippians between AD 800 and 1400.

In addition to the iconic Gateway Arch, St. Louis is home to such celebrated landmarks as the Scott Joplin House State Historic Site, former 19th century home of the King of Ragtime, and St. Louis Union Station. The train station was completed in 1894 and was once the largest and busiest passenger rail terminal in the world.

Other prominent downtown landmarks include Christ Church Cathedral, designed in the early English decorated style by architect Leopold Eidlitz in 1867, and the 1892 Wainwright Building, a 10-story, red-brick, steel-frame building considered to be the first skyscraper ever built. The Anheuser-Busch Brewery is a historic red-brick complex that includes the 1868 Lyon School and the Budweiser Clydesdale Stables, built in 1885.

White Haven was the home of Civil War General and U.S. President Ulysses S. Grant and his wife, Julia, during the 1850s. Grant married St. Louisan Julia Dent, the sister of his Jefferson Barracks roommate, whom he met at the 1,000-acre plantation in 1843.

Missouri Botanical Garden, established in 1859, is the oldest functioning botanical garden in the country.

☛ In addition to a growing number of farmers markets in the region (seven at last count), St. Louis' love affair with locally produced foodstuffs continues to blossom. Area chefs are jumping on the bandwagon in droves, and local restaurateurs are making it easy for St. Louis foodies to find regional delights throughout the bistate region.

Joining restaurants by noted chefs Jim Fiala (Terrace View, Liluma, Acero, The Crossing) and Gerard Craft (Niche, Taste by Niche, Brasserie by Niche) in the sustainable table biz are the Soulard neighborhood's Franco, Terrene in the Central West End, Stellina Pasta Café and Onesto Pizza and Trattoria on the city's south side and Cardwell's at the Plaza in West County. All offer menus of fresh, innovative and locally sourced cuisine for an abundance of sustainable dining choices. 🍴

➔ So, what's new? Well, if you're in St. Louis, the answer is always the same—plenty. Here are a few highlights you won't want to miss in 2011.

bigger

➔ THE SAINT LOUIS SCIENCE CENTER The Saint Louis Science Center (www.slsc.org) is getting bigger—with a new 13,000-square-foot exhibition hall—and greener this summer, thanks to a brand-spankin'-new LEED-certified structure designed to host large-scale touring exhibits, educational programs and special events. SLSC will feature exhibits about sustainability and other eco-friendly topics in the fancy new digs, which will include a rooftop terrace for unique outdoor exhibits. The new space is set to debut in the summer of 2011.

➤ CHUCK BERRY STATUE

The man known as the "Father of Rock 'n' Roll" is now holding court in The Loop 24/7. An eight-foot-tall bronze statue of legendary St. Louis rocker Chuck Berry stands guard in Chuck Berry Plaza, located at the intersection of Delmar Boulevard and the Centennial Greenway Bike Path in University City. St. Louis sculptor Harry Weber created the statue, which shows the ever-fluid Rock and Roll Hall of Famer in an old-school tuxedo with his trademark Gibson guitar. The statue is located across the street from Blueberry Hill (www.blueberryhill.com), the iconic Loop neighborhood restaurant and music club where Berry still plays monthly concerts.

The Caveman Zipline offers participants a chance to "fly" through treetop canopies and the natural cave bluffs of the Meramec at speeds up to 50 miles per hour. Zips during the 90-minute-long guided tours range from 250 to 1,200 feet and you'll be cruising at heights of 54 to 82 feet above the ground. Don't worry—the tour includes all the necessary safety equipment and information. They won't leave you hanging...

➤ PEABODY OPERA HOUSE Crews are hard at work renovating, restoring and re-fabbing the Peabody Opera House (www.peabodyoperahouse.com), which is adjacent to the Scottrade Center. Slated to reopen in the fall of 2011, the historic building originally opened in 1934 as the Municipal Auditorium. St. Louis' newest downtown performing arts and cultural center will feature a 3,200-seat main theatre that will host such events as live touring shows and concerts. 🎭

For baseball fans who think that nine innings just isn't enough, here's a way to add a little extra excitement to a visit to Busch Stadium. Get your game-day ticket punched early and catch Albert and the rest of the Redbirds swinging for the fences in their natural habitat. Fans of the "Big Fly" will have plenty to see during batting practice before regular season games from April to October. Get schedule and ticket info at www.stlcardinals.com.

Here's the lineup for both teams' respective times in the BP cage:

12:10 and 12:15 p.m. games

From September to January, the NFL's St. Louis Rams (www.stlouisrams.com) grind it out on the gridiron of the Edward Jones Dome in downtown St. Louis—but the real action starts well before the first snap at any preseason football game.

NEWMAN LAWRENCE

Ramblin' Rams

Football fans can watch the team working out and getting ready for the regular season during training camp at Rams Park each summer in nearby Earth City. Find out for yourself how grueling those legendary “two-a-days” can be and get a firsthand look at what pro football players go through during a typical “day at the office.”

In addition to the free daily practice sessions, which begin in late July and run through the end of August, the team holds a scrimmage that's also free and open to the public. For a complete list of 2011 practices, visit www.stlouisrams.com/trainingcamp.

The National Hockey League regular season runs from September through April, so there are plenty of chances to catch the St. Louis Blues (www.stlouisblues.com) in action at Scottrade Center—but have you ever wondered how the team gets ready for those on-ice battles?

Serious hockey fans can get a behind-the-scenes look at Blues players as they sharpen their skills during team practice sessions at the IceZone at St. Louis Mills. The rink, which is open to the public year-round, serves as the official practice facility of the St. Louis

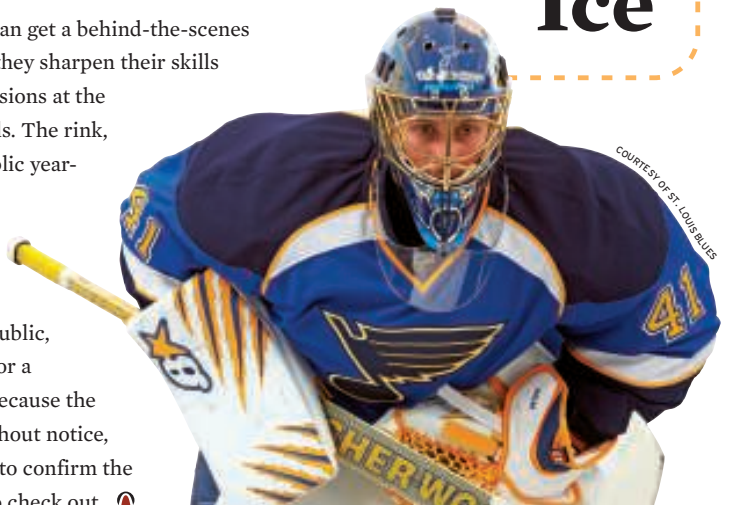

Blues. All team practices held at the rink are free and open to the public, so visit www.icezoneatmills.com for a complete list of dates and times. Because the team's schedule often changes without notice, call the IceZone at (314) 227-5288 to confirm the practice session you're planning to check out. 🎧

Tweens and teens can explore a little nightlife during City Museum's "Late Nights With Flashlights." At 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday nights, the museum drops the lights and visitors are able to explore the unique museum through the beam of a flashlight. City Museum is open until 1 a.m. on these nights, so everyone can enjoy an entirely different perspective of this warehouse of wackiness.

All budding hipsters love their music, and Six Flags St. Louis' summer concert series features the biggest and brightest stars in pop and contemporary Christian music. Scare the dickens out of them at Six Flags Fright Fest with some Halloween shenanigans during October. The theme park transforms into a ghostly land of haunted houses, mazes, costumed ghouls and a Spooktacular Street Party.

Everyone can howl at the moon at Endangered Wolf Center's "Campfire Wolf Howls." Spend an evening around the campfire listening to wolf-friendly stories, then trek over to the wolf enclosures for a howling concert by the resident canids.

Kids of all ages can be part of the action on a "Keeper Safari" at the Saint Louis Zoo. They can hang out with the bird, snake, primate or carnivore keepers and learn what it takes to care for critters that call the zoo home. Teens and adults can take "zootography" digital photography classes with the zoo's volunteer photographer, and the whole family can spend the night at the zoo. Trust us, “things that go bump in the night” take on a whole different meaning when you’re spending the night under the stars (weather permitting) with a bunch of wild animals!

Saint Louis Zoo

The Saint Louis Science Center has some overnight experiences as well. A variety of “Science Camp-ins” are held throughout the year, with each overnight event designed around a specific topic. Themes range from planetarium camp-ins that let you sleep under the stars to family science nights where everyone can get into the act.

Other activities the whole family can agree on include an action-packed day of laser tag, dodge ball and rock climbing at Chesterfield Sports Fusion or rolling a few frames at Flamingo Bowl. The hot-pink venue doesn’t become a martini lounge/bowling alley until 9 p.m., so families can enjoy some quality time in the fast lanes during the early evening hours. Or pack up the car and head back in time to the Sky View Drive-In Theatre in Belleville, IL. Originally opened in 1953, the drive-in shows first-run movies rated G, PG and PG-13 on two screens. 🎬

» HOLEY ROLLERS

Back in the day, before fat grams and “carbophobia” took over, the neighborhood doughnut shop churned out dozens of exotic delicacies daily.

St. Louis is home to a number of family-run shops that still specialize in creating the holey pastry. Here you can watch doughnuts being made the old-fashioned way—no machinery. Whatever the flavor they eventually become, all doughnuts start out as a pile of dough worked over with an industrial-strength rolling pin, then hand-cut and deep-fried. Depending on what’s selling best that day, customers can see everything from the traditional yeastie glazed version to hearty cake-style or jelly-filled varieties being created.

In 2010, one local holey roller made the national honor roll. The Donut Stop in nearby Lemay was named one of the Top 10 Best Places for Donuts in the U.S. by Bon Appétit magazine. (Hmmm—who knew Bon Appétit-ers even ate doughnuts?)

neighborhood stroll

Each area of the city offers a style and charm all its own »

St. Louis is best described by a visit through its many unique neighborhoods. Each offers a distinctive style and experience to those who live and visit there, which results in a regional patchwork bursting with colorful styles, textures, tastes and experiences. St. Louis neighborhoods are a lot like potato chips—one is not enough and you can never have too many.

NEIGHBORHOODS

MICHAEL DEFILIPPO

Washington Avenue

↓ Soulard/ Cherokee

Soulard, the city's oldest neighborhood, exhibits a leisurely pace and an appreciation of days gone by. The historic streets are lined with red-brick townhomes that house live music clubs and unique restaurants. Spend time in one of the courtyards and patios and—if you listen hard enough—you may hear the strains of an Irish melody or the soulful sound of a blues guitar. Next door, the Cherokee neighborhood moves to the beat of a different drummer, as residents and visitors peruse block upon block of antique stores, old-school variety stores, galleries and eateries. Mexican bakeries, groceries and restaurants bustle with activity as diners enjoy a casual bite or grab a burrito to go.

STEVE PEROTTI

Soulard: From downtown St. Louis, take Broadway and Seventh Street south to Lafayette. For more information, call (314) 773-6767 or visit www.soulardthecity.com.

Cherokee: From downtown, take Broadway south and continue south on Seventh Street to Cherokee Street and DeMenil Place. For more information, call (314) 776-6410 and visit www.cherokeeantiquerow.com, or (314) 776-6410 and www.cherokee-lemp.org.

↑ Downtown

From its days as the 20th century epicenter of St. Louis' garment and shoe manufacturing district, downtown St. Louis has undergone myriad changes and modifications.

What was once considered just another depressed urban core has been reinvented as a neighborhood for the 21st century Midwesterner. Downtown's Loft District blurs the line between work and play, thanks to its cohabitation of major corporations, small businesses, residential lofts, boutiques, galleries, restaurants and nightspots. The neighborhood's evolution has returned the once-proud historic buildings to service and succeeded in making the heart of the region pulse with activity and life.

Downtown's boundaries are defined as the Mississippi River on the east, Jefferson Avenue on the west, Cole Street to the north and I-64/ Highway 40 on the south. For more information, call (314) 436-6500 or click www.downtownstl.org.

ENTERTAINMENT DISTRICTS

Laclede's Landing

The old and the new come together on Laclede's Landing, as 19th century architecture meets 21st century dining and entertainment. The Landing, as the locals call it, is a collection of historic 19th century riverfront warehouses that have been converted into nightclubs and restaurants. Visit a brewpub, dance club or dueling pianos bar; then try your luck at the Lumière Place casino complex or the Casino Queen, located just across the river in Illinois. The district hosts occasional special events, including the free Big Muddy Blues Festival on Labor Day Weekend.

Located just north of the Arch grounds, it's an easy walk from downtown St. Louis. The MetroLink light rail stops at the Arch/Laclede's Landing station, and motorists should take Memorial

Drive north to Washington

Avenue. For more information, call (314) 241-5875 or visit www.lacledeslanding.com.

Gateway Cup

↑ Lafayette Square

This historic enclave centers around its collection of "painted ladies," a set of stately Victorian homes that surrounds beautiful Lafayette Park. The 30-acre oasis of greenery within the urban landscape serves as an idyllic setting for residents and visitors to gather 'round the bandstand for free summertime concerts, and a place where dog-walkers greet one another's charges by name. Along the perimeter, renovated lofts and condos are sprinkled in amongst the one-of-a-kind restaurants, bars, specialty shops and bed-and-breakfast inns. The neighborhood caters to a hip, urban clientele that appreciates fine wine, fine dining and a unique culinary adventure. From downtown St. Louis, take Market Street west to Jefferson Avenue south and turn east on Park. For more information, call (314) 772-5724 or click www.lafayettesquare.org.

← Central West End

Tucked along the edge of Forest Park, the Central West End is a mix of the old, the new and everything in between. Anchored by stately 20th century mansions, the neighborhood maintains an upscale attitude with a casual vibe, and foot traffic is steady throughout the day and into the night. The neighborhood's collection of restaurants, pubs and shops is as diverse as its patrons, and its trendy nightspots are some of the region's most popular. The sidewalk cafés fill up quickly during warm-weather months, with tables of professionals, artists, students and locals absorbing a unique blend of Old World elegance and 21st century comforts.

From downtown St. Louis, take I-64/Highway 40 west to Kingshighway north, or take MetroLink light rail to the Central West End station. For more information, dial (314) 367-2220 or visit www.centralwestend.com.

Central West End

→ The Hill

The Hill's roots are interspersed with the history of St. Louis, generating two of the region's proudest exports—world-class athletes and Italian cuisine. It maintains a traditional aura of gingerbread-style houses, meticulously kept lawns and authentic Italian bakeries, grocery stores, restaurants and mom-and-pop trattorias. Everything is colorful here—even the fire hydrants are painted red, white and green. Twenty-first century additions include coffeehouses, studios and retail and small businesses that create additional energy in the cozy enclave. Its epicenter is one intersection that sums up the ambiance perfectly with St. Ambrose Catholic Church on one corner, an Italian bakery and restaurant on another and a neighborhood tavern/bocce garden located across the street.

DAN DOMOVAN

From downtown St. Louis, take I-64/Highway 40 west to Kingshighway south and turn west on Shaw. For more information, dial (314) 776-8655, ext. 316, or visit www.shopthehill.com.

↘ The Loop/ University City

The Loop

Its proximity to Washington University contributes a fresh, contemporary vibe to the historic neighborhood, which includes stately homes and tree-lined streets. But what gives “U City” its energy is Delmar Boulevard, an eclectic main drag lined with an array of ethnic and American restaurants, music clubs, coffee shops, vintage clothing stores and boutiques. The merchants cater to consumers who appreciate everything from fine to funky, and it’s an easy place to spend a full day exploring shops that offer everything from tattoos and piercings to books and records.

Nicknamed “The Loop” after an old streetcar turnaround, the neighborhood cultivates a unique sense of whimsy that’s redefined daily. From downtown St. Louis, take I-64/Highway 40 west to the Clayton Road exit, turn north on Skinker and west on Delmar. Or take MetroLink to the Delmar Loop Station and walk west. For more information, call (314) 727-8000 or visit www.VisitTheLoop.com.

➔ The Ville

During the 1920s, The Ville was home to an elite community that included black professionals, businessmen, entertainers and Annie Malone, one of the country’s first African-American millionaires. One of St. Louis’ most historically significant neighborhoods, The Ville was home to Sumner High School, the first school west of the Mississippi River to provide secondary education for blacks. Some of the school’s best-known alumni are Rock ‘n’ Roll Hall of Famer Chuck Berry, opera diva Grace Bumbry and tennis great Arthur Ashe. During the 1920s and 30s, the neighborhood thrived, as more and more African-American institutions were established, including Harriet

Beecher Stowe College and Homer G. Phillips Hospital. The Ville served as the cradle of African-American culture and nurtured its rich heritage for the black population of St. Louis. Today, the soaring Ville Monument pays tribute to the neighborhood’s achievements and its famous sons and daughters. From downtown St. Louis, take Tucker (12th Street) north; continue north on Natural Bridge Road, then turn south on Grand and west on St. Louis Avenue. For more information, visit www.stlouis.missouri.org/ville.

The Ville

Grand Center Arts & Entertainment

Grand Center serves as the cultural hub of the region and offers an artistic “playground for the senses.” Arts industry peers have said there are few—if any—districts in the entire country that have the intensity and caliber of arts offerings as Grand Center, thanks to its 12,000 theatre seats, 1,500 cultural events and a dozen galleries and museums. The individual venues offer the traditional and the experimental, as the district is home to such renowned entities as the Saint Louis Symphony Orchestra, The Fabulous Fox Theatre, the St. Louis Black Repertory Company, Sheldon Concert Hall and Art Galleries, Contemporary Art Museum St. Louis, Pulitzer Foundation for the Arts, Jazz at the Bistro and more. From downtown, take I-64/Highway 40 west to Forest Park/Grand Boulevard; turn left and continue north on Grand Boulevard. For more information call (314) 289-1500 or visit www.grandcenter.org.

SAN DIEGO/US

LEE HARRIS

↓ Clayton

Sophisticated shops and upscale dining options lend credence to Clayton's daytime reputation as a buttoned-up center of commerce for St. Louis County. But after the workday is done, young professionals gather for happy hours, block parties and art gallery events, while diners explore the many flavors and styles that make up the area's culinary landscape. Generations of Claytonians live inside the neighborhood's most beautiful homes, and new upscale condos add additional flair to the changing skyline. Nearby Shaw Park plays host to summertime cocktail parties and co-ed sports leagues, and a variety of art fairs, food festivals and a farmers market are highlights of the tony district's calendar of activities.

From downtown St. Louis, take I-64/Highway 40 west to Hanley Road north to reach Clayton. For more information, call (314) 726-3033, click on www.ci.clayton.mo.us or see www.claytoncommerce.com.

Manchester Road, Maplewood

↑ Maplewood

This charming neighborhood on the outskirts of the city has emerged as one of the area's newest destinations for boutique shopping, one-of-a-kind eateries and festive special events.

Maplewood also offers the vintage Saratoga Lanes—the oldest bowling alley west of the Mississippi River—and tours of the local brewpub Schlafly Bottleworks that explain the history of beer in St. Louis. From downtown St. Louis or Forest Park, take Hampton or McCausland avenues south to Manchester and turn west. For more information, contact the Maplewood Chamber of Commerce at (314) 781-8588 or visit www.maplewood-chamber.com.

Clayton

→ The Grove

Located in the Forest Park Southeast neighborhood, The Grove is a burgeoning new residential/commercial district that features a variety of independent restaurants, shops, galleries and bars. A diverse assortment of styles and lifestyles come together to eat, drink and recreate at the equally diverse collection of businesses that line the neighborhood's "main drag" of Manchester Road. From downtown St. Louis, take I-64 west to Kingshighway Boulevard south. Turn left (east) onto Manchester Road. For more information, contact The Grove Community Improvement District at (314) 535-5311 or visit www.thegrovecid.org.

MATT GREEN, WINEC

GREGG GOLDMAN

↓ Florissant

Established in 1786 by French settlers, Florissant remains a popular suburban outpost in North St. Louis County.

Originally named “Fleurissant,” which means “Valley of Flowers,” it features several buildings from the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries listed on the National Register of Historic Places. Spanish Land Grant Park, a gift from the king of Spain, served as the site of drills by the militia and features unmarked graves of many early settlers. The Girardier House is one version of the early Missouri French house designs and typical of the style found in Florissant. The St. Ferdinand Shrine, which sits near the site of the original St. Ferdinand Catholic Church, was built in 1790. The present church—constructed in 1821—is believed to be the oldest standing church west of the Mississippi River.

Westport Plaza

Westport Plaza is a 42-acre entertainment and business complex featuring restaurants, live entertainment, specialty retail and two first-class hotels. Dining options range from white linen tablecloths and voluminous wine lists to hearty pub grub served up alongside dozens of flat-screen TVs. There’s an upscale sports bar named for one of the Cardinals’ greatest players—Albert Pujols—as well as live jazz, blues, rock, pop and comedy clubs. A 240-seat theatre offers live performances of popular touring productions. Westport produces a number of special events, including free outdoor blues and jazz concerts, lively large-scale cocktail parties, wine tastings, cook-offs, outdoor movie nights and holiday activities. From downtown, take I-64/Highway 40 west to I-270 north. Take exit 17 and turn right on Dorsett Road; take the first right onto Progress Parkway and continue to Westport Plaza. For more information, call (314) 576-7100 or click www.westportstl.com.

↑ South Grand

A slice of bohemia that offers an eclectic menu of ethnic eateries and shops, South Grand’s gracious “come as you are” attitude makes it comfortable for everyone. The neighborhood represents the American dream to immigrants from Ethiopia, Vietnam and points Eastern, along with newly minted Americans that have opened restaurants offering authentic cuisine of Afghanistan, Thailand and the Middle East.

Neighboring Tower Grove Park doubles as the site for some of the region’s most diverse festivals and as an expansive, grassy playground sprinkled with traditional Victorian pavilions and gazebos.

From downtown, take I-64/Highway 40 west to the Grand exit and continue south on Grand. For more information, call (314) 772-5750 or visit www.southgrand.org.

Dining Out with Al- Al Fresco

Looking for a place to grab a bite and enjoy the great outdoors? St. Louisans love to dine outside, so we put together a list of urban locales that offer a place to sit and sup away from the sidewalk. Spend some quality time in one of the specially designed outdoor dining spots.

Escape the hustle and bustle of downtown for a casual lunch or dinner on the patios of Lucas Park Grille, Over/Under Bar & Grill or Gio's Ristorante & Bar, or settle in for some fine dining at Harry's Restaurant & Bar, Mike Shannon's Steaks & Seafood or Jim Edmonds 15 Steakhouse. For the ultimate upscale dining experience—and the world's best view of the Gateway Arch—visit Cielo at the Four Seasons Hotel.

The Soulard neighborhood is full of garden-style cocktail options, including The Great Grizzly Bear, Hammerstone's, Broadway Oyster Bar and Nadine's Gin Joint. Down the road in Lafayette Square, visit 1111 Mississippi for wine country fare, or enjoy the view from the rooftop bar and bistro of Vin de Set.

In the Central West End, Brasserie by Niche offers French fare, while Scape is an American bistro with European flair. Liluma has a tradition of serving up contemporary American delights, and Midtown's Triumph Grill gets your motor running with salads, sandwiches and a variety of entrées.

Al fresco fans at Westport Plaza flock to Pujols 5 Westport Grill's patio for chilaquiles, steaks, seafood and more.

The Great (Pizza) Debate

Some swear by New York, and others insist on Chicago—but all bets are off here because St. Louis has a style all its own. Native St. Louisans were raised on pies featuring a cracker-thin crust, sweet tomato sauce and topped with provel. No, not Provolone—provel. This processed blend of cheddar, Swiss and Provolone cheese is what makes the Gateway City's pizza taste like no other.

Popular local chains, such as Imo's Pizza, Pasta House Company and Elicia's Pizza and Wings Delivery, specialize in St. Louis pies, and traditionalists can get their favorite style delivered, thanks to a downtown location of Papa John's Pizza.

Cicero's Restaurant in The Loop offers the best of both worlds (can't we all just get along?), with mozzarella on its thick-crust pizzas and provel on the thin-crust versions. Joanie's Pizzeria in Soulard serves up thin-crust pies that include such specialties as the Franco's Cajun Pride and Buffalo Chicken pizzas. On The Hill, Rigazzi's St. Louis-style was recognized as one of the best pizzas in the U.S. by Bon Appétit magazine (mozzarella available upon request), with neighboring Guido's Pizzeria & Tapas letting diners choose their cheese.

If your kids insist on having a side order of activity with your pie, then America's Incredible Pizza Company is the place. There are two locations in the region, and they're guaranteed to have enough activities to help the wee ones work up a big appetite.

But there's a new kind of pizza in St. Louis, thanks to a unique crust and the endorsement of a world leader. Pi Pizzeria captured the heart—and taste buds—of President Barack Obama, who first tried Pi's pies while in town for a campaign stop. The Commander in Chief was so taken with the cornmeal crust and the collection of toppings that he invited the restaurant's proprietor to the White House to whip up a few pizzas for the First Family and his staff. Pi offers specialty thin-crust pizzas and a unique deep-dish recipe featuring a soft cornmeal crust that has to be tasted to be believed. There are now four Pi locations throughout St. Louis.

Brew Crews

St. Louis' rich brewing history continues to evolve, with unique new chapters constantly being added to the encyclopedia of "Who's Who in American Brews."

The St. Louis Brewery & Tap Room (www.schlafly.com) celebrates its 20th anniversary in 2011. The city's first new brewery in more than 50 years began making Schlafly beer, and a new era of brewing was born. Schlafly continued to grow in popularity, so a second pub location—and larger brewing facility—soon opened in neighboring features a menu of upscale pub grub made with ingredients from local farmers and businesses. The list of beers keeps growing too, with everything from Pale Ale and Hefeweizen to a barrel-aged Imperial Stout to the bottle-conditioned Grand Cru.

Morgan Street Brewery

(www.morganstreetbrewery.com) on Laclede's Landing creates handcrafted brews, such as the Honey Wheat and Steam Lager, that are available year-round. MSB's many specialty brews include Morgan Street Vienna, Dark Wheat, Red Lager, Oatmeal Stout, Irish Stout, Cobblestone Steam Lager and a variety of seasonal beers. Can't decide where to start? Try the "Brewski Sampler" featuring four different flavors.

In the Lafayette Square neighborhood, Square One Brewery and Distillery

(www.squareonebrewery.com) serves up an ever-evolving menu of handcrafted brews like Cask Ale, Bavarian Weizen, Grand Cru, Front Range, Saison, Nut Brown Ale, I.P.A., Barley Wine and Belgian Wit. The food menu includes a selection of soups, salads, sandwiches and entrées that flow perfectly with many of Square One's craft beers. 🍷

St. Louis Seasons

Almost any time is a good time to visit St. Louis. There's always something new to explore during every season—all that changes is the clothes you need to bring with you!

During spring and summer months, everything blooms and hope springs eternal as baseball's beloved boys of summer return to Busch Stadium. Fall is festival time in the Gateway City, with celebrations of art, crafts, hot air balloons, ethnic heritage, beer, wine and spooktacular happenings. Enjoy the beautiful fall foliage with a drive along the Great River Road or amp up the adrenaline with a ticket to watch the NFL's St. Louis Rams or the NHL's St. Louis Blues.

The first weekend of December brings Holiday Magic, St. Louis' newest holiday tradition. The three-day event includes such family-friendly activities as carnival rides, live entertainment, ice skating, kids' activities, shopping and visits with Santa.

Winter in St. Louis can only be described as "magical," with plenty of events and activities that take place before, during and after the holiday season. From ice skating and sledding in Forest Park to performances and exhibits by internationally renowned artists, there's tons of indoor and outdoor fun. Plus, it's a good time to get away without leaving all of your hard-earned cash behind.

"Winter Magic" offers visitors the chance to enjoy discounts on everything St. Louis has to offer, from upscale hotels and cozy bed & breakfast inns to the countless shops, boutiques and restaurants throughout the area. Explore our eclectic array of attractions and museums, then sample St. Louis' smorgasbord of dining and entertainment options. Whether your taste is for haute couture and nouvelle cuisine or casual attire and a plate filled with only-in-St.-Louis delights, we've got you covered.

There are plenty of nightspots, casinos and cultural opportunities to keep you occupied, along with a host of special events and activities. Grab a ticket to a hockey game or a show, check out some of St. Louis' live blues and jazz clubs or just dance the night away. Celebrate the end of winter with a weekend—or two—of activities during Mardi Gras in the historic Soulard neighborhood. There are parades, cooking competitions, art shows, parties and pet-friendly events throughout the pre-Lenten celebration. 🎉

For more information about Winter Magic hotel packages, discounts and coupons, visit www.explorestlouis.com/magical and warm up the winter with a visit to St. Louis.

Great Streets in America™

—American Planning Association

History of the Area

During the last 35 years, the Delmar Loop has evolved into one of the most vibrant and entertaining areas in the United States.

The gradual turnaround of The Loop began in the early 1970s with legislation that limited occupancy of first floor storefronts to retail shops, galleries and restaurants to attract more pedestrians. Nationally renowned restaurant and music club Blueberry Hill was the first of a new era of unique owner-operated businesses.

The sidewalks along Delmar Blvd. were widened to encourage foot traffic and outdoor cafés.

In the 1980s dusk-to-dawn lights, trash receptacles and flower planters were added to make The Loop brighter, cleaner and more colorful.

The non-profit St. Louis Walk of Fame was founded and became a unifying attraction for the area. Now more than 125 stars and informative plaques are embedded in the sidewalks.

In the 1990s the Delmar Loop MetroLink station opened. Visitors can ride a clean, quick light-rail train right to The Loop and begin their visit by walking west.

In 1995 the elegant Tivoli Movie Theatre was beautifully restored and, along with many new gift shops and clothing boutiques, signaled that The Loop had arrived.

Expansion into the City of St. Louis started in 2000 with the grand opening of The Pageant, a 2,000+ capacity concert nightclub that has featured artists such as Bob Dylan, the White Stripes, Green Day, Dolly Parton and OutKast. Many consider The Loop to be the live music center of St. Louis with 12 stages on which you can enjoy music of all genres.

Exciting new attractions include the luxury boutique Moonrise Hotel and casual fine dining Eclipse Restaurant; the Pin-Up Bowl bowling and martini lounge; the Delmar Loop Planet Walk in which one can take a 3 billion mile walk (2,880 feet) from the Sun to Neptune, enjoying the scale model of the solar system; and in 2011 the African American Cultural Center, devoted to the celebration of both history and culture. In 2012 a new fixed-track historic trolley will connect The Loop with two MetroLink stations and Forest Park attractions. ❖

The Loop is located just 20 minutes from Lambert Airport and downtown St. Louis, five minutes from the Clayton business district and within walking distance of Washington University. Visitors can also ride MetroLink to the Delmar Loop station and walk west—it's that easy!

attractions

St. Louis is best known for the iconic Gateway Arch, but there's plenty more to see and do around here—there's literally something for everyone. Start by checking out our museums—they're nothing if not unique. There's one devoted to dogs, another to vintage automobiles, one focused on black history and culture, and a couple that showcase contemporary art. There's one that highlights modes of transportation, another one about miniatures and still another one that is devoted to making art from recycled industrial parts. There's also a house full of butterflies, a garden full of sculpture and a variety of historic sites, so history buffs can find their fill of Lewis & Clark, the Civil War and so much more.

» TRAVEL TIP

In addition to offering free general admission, many area cultural institutions have "free times" that allow complimentary admission to special exhibits and programs. Check with each attraction for specific days and times.

St. Louis Gateway Classic

sports

In case you haven't heard it already, St. Louis is a sports town. If there's a ball, puck or fast car involved, a crowd of St. Louisans will be there to cheer the team on to victory. From the Cardinals, Rams and Blues to golf tournaments and college athletics, there's always a game going on somewhere. St. Louis has claimed 10 World Series titles (most recently Cardinals, 2006), a Super Bowl title (Rams, 2000) and an NBA championship (Hawks, 1958). The region has hosted five Major League Baseball All-Star Games—including the 2009 Mid-Summer Classic—PGA tournaments, World Team Tennis and NCAA championship events like the Men's and Women's Final Four.

shopping

When the pioneers trekked through St. Louis on their way west, they stopped to pick up a few things, sell a few things or trade for a few things they might need during their journey. For today's modern explorers, searching for everything from classic looks and big-city style to vintage fashions from days gone by, St. Louis is sure to have a store that captures their unique style. In addition to visiting a spate of major shopping centers and outlet malls, adventurous consumers can "get their shop on" at the unique boutiques found in St. Louis' eclectic neighborhoods. Or they can visit the gift shops at the one-of-a-kind museums and attractions for an only-in-St. Louis kind of souvenir.

» TRAVEL TIP

Take a walk with the stars along the St. Louis Walk of Fame. More than 100 bronze plaques and brass stars line the sidewalks of Delmar Boulevard, with each paying tribute to a noted St. Louisan.

Maya Café

dining

From nouvelle-cuisine bistros and elegant steakhouses to an array of ethnic eateries and neighborhood cafés, there's a temptation for each and every taste bud in St. Louis. The city's early immigrants brought their French, German, Italian and Polish delicacies with them and the tradition of infusing different cultures into "American cuisine" continues today with new arrivals from Bosnia, Africa, Asia, Latin America and Europe. These tasty additions accent St. Louis' eclectic culinary culture and spice up the city's Midwestern flavor and nearby wineries top off the meal with award-winning vintages. Throw in the region's own unique contributions to the culinary landscape— toasted ravioli, gooey butter cake and frozen custard concretes— and you've got one heck of a meal.

St. Louis loves any excuse to have a party, as evidenced by the number of nightlife options you'll find in the region. Check out the downtown Loft District, Laclède's Landing and Souldard for live music and entertainment, or spend some time tempting Lady Luck at one of six area casinos. Just south and west of downtown, the Lafayette Square, South Grand and Central West End neighborhoods offer choices for those in search of late-night fun. The Loop neighborhood in nearby University City features all kinds of live music and DJ spins—as well as plenty of people-watching—and Westport Plaza boasts live music clubs, sports bars and a comedy club.

» TRAVEL TIP

Lumière Place on the riverfront offers free shuttles to and from downtown hotels. Check with the front desk for hotel pick-up times.

HOTEL HEADQUARTERS

Historic buildings in the Gateway City's central business district are undergoing transformations that are adding new life and new visitors to the convention complex district. Adjacent to America's Center® is The Laurel, a 630,000-square-foot development that will include a 212-room Embassy Suites Hotel, apartments, dining, retail and the National Blues Museum & Hall of Fame.

In the burgeoning Midtown neighborhood, home to Saint Louis University and Grand Center, a new boutique-style, 51-room hotel is opening in 2011. Hotel Ignacio will offer upscale, modern accommodations with a special focus on the fine and performing arts. In addition to a garden-like courtyard, the property will include a business center, spa and fitness center and food service from the neighboring Triumph Grill. In the airport area, the Renaissance St. Louis Airport Hotel was awarded the prestigious AAA Four-Diamond award in 2010. The 393-room property has 37,000 square feet of meeting space, including the 11,400-square-foot Concourse Ballroom.

» CONVENTION CENTER

THE AMERICA'S CENTER® CONVENTION COMPLEX HAS RECENTLY UNDERGONE MAJOR UPGRADES, INCLUDING RENOVATED AND MORE ENERGY-EFFICIENT RESTROOMS; AN UPGRADED KITCHEN; NEW PAINT, CARPET, LIGHTING AND AIRWALLS; NEW ESCALATORS; UPGRADED ELEVATORS AND MORE ENERGY-EFFICIENT MODELS OF STEAM CHILLERS, GAS BOILERS AND FAN TERMINALS. THE FACILITY CAN ACCOMMODATE MEETINGS AND EVENTS OF ANY SIZE.

- The IACC-certified Executive Conference Center accommodates up to 100 people
- 502,000 square feet of contiguous exhibit space in six halls
- More than 80 flexible meeting rooms
- 1,400-seat Ferrara Theatre
- 67,000-seat Edward Jones Dome connected to the convention center
